JM Jane Mackie

JM While I sit within the supply chain, I actually work very closely with marketing. I work very closely with R&D and our development colleagues and I work very closely with our sales team because at the end of the day, the way in which we manage the quality of our products is, it's not just about how we manufacture them. It's about how we design them. It's about materials that go into them, and it's also about the way we market them.
