MB                    Marco Bottarelli

MB    At the moment I'm working in oral care. I've been working in machine dish. I've been working in laundry, household cleaning, skin, and if you are genuinely excited by the science, in every different category you work in, you learn so much about the science underpinning the products that we sell. So I think you could work in this company for 100 years, and still, as a scientist, be excited by the knowledge that is generated, and the knowledge that you can contribute to in making these products better.
